WILLIE BRYANT.

A Run Away Lad from Fort Wayne Arrested at Cincinnati.

The Sunday Cincinnati Enquirer says: "Willie Bryant, a fifteen-year-old boy, went into a Central-avenue pawnbroker's shop, about three o'clock yesterday afternoon, and tried to pledge a gold watch and chain. The pawnbroker hesitated and began to ask some questions, when the boy ran out and started up the street. The pawnbroker followed and overhauled him, after a chase of a square. He was brought up to Central station, where he stated that his name was Bryant, and that he had run away from his home at Fort Wayne, Ind. He is held on suspicion, awaiting news from his family.

Ex-Secretary Manning's Opinion of President Cleveland.

NEW YORK, June 13.—The Herald prints an interview with Mr. Daniel J. Manning in which he says: "I consider Mr. Cleveland the winning card in the political game. If there be opposition in his party it will not hurt him. Mr. Cleveland is a party man, but a discrete party man.

HUNG TO A TREE.

The Infuriated Citizens of Jamestown, Ohio, Lynch a Negro Who] Attempted Rape on a Colored Woman.

XENIA, O., June 13.—At Jamestown, this county, Saturday night about midnight, Peter Betters, a colored man, made a desperate attempt at murder and rape upon an old colored woman named Martha Thomas, aged seventy-five years. The alarm was given and the assailant arrested, but he broke through the guard and escaped. The neighborhood was greatly excited over the affair, and the fugitive negro was hunted down. In the fair grounds, where the cyclone played such fearful havoc some time ago, there are many trees bent by the storm and they made an excellent gallows. To one of these the dead body of Betters was found hanging this morning, cold and dead. Whether hung by the mob or by his own hand, cannot be determined at this time, but it is generally known that the work was quietly done by the infuriated citizens of Jamestown in the dead hour of the night, and strict secrecy sworn on the spot by the avengers.

POISONED BEER.

Indications of Arsenic Having Been Put in a Drink and Death Results.

WASHINGTON, Ind., June 13.—Yesterday evening the wife and five-year-old and only child of A. J. Dant, deputy county recorded, took suddenly ill directly after drinking some bottled beer and the little girl continued to grow worse, suffering terrible agony until four o'clock, when she died with what our best physicians pronounce arsenical poisoning. Mrs. Dant has also suffered greatly, but is said to be out of danger tonight. One of the physicians who have examined the lady gives it as his opinion that she has only had hysterics, and the horrible suspicion has been expressed that the child has been the victim of foul play. An inquest will be held on the body of the child, and perhaps an autopsy and an analysis of the contents of its stomach. The little girl was a daughter of a former wife of Mr. Dant.

Arrested for Arson.

KOKOMO, Ind., June 13.—It is generally understood about town that two laborers, Wm. and Joseph Malosh, brothers, married men, probably between twenty-five and thirty years of age, are under arrest for setting fire to the business block, causing the big fire here January 18, 1887, when five three-story business houses with a great part of their contents, were burned, causing a loss of nearly $75,000. It is current rumor that they have made a confession of the crime, and have implicated others, said to be most prominent parties, high up in business and social circles. Officers are working the matter up, and keeping closed mouths until other arrests are made, which are expected to create a sensation beyond anything occurring here for years.

Church Closed Against a Funeral.

NEW YORK, June 12.—The funeral of Charles D. Keep, editor of the Wall street News, was to have taken place at St. Vincent's R. C. church, but when the friends arrived they found the church closed. It was said the Dominican Fathers in charge had refused to permit the funeral services at the church because the deceased, who was a Roman Catholic, had a divorced wife living when he married again.

Death of a Prominent Abolitionist.

BOSTON, June 13.—The Hon. James M. Buffum, one of the last of the band of abolitionists led by Garrison and Phillips, died at his home in Lynn last evening. Mr. Buffum has been gradually failing for several months and his death was known to be not far in the future when he celebrated his eightieth birthday a few weeks ago.

An Honest Policeman.

NEW YORK, June 12.—While Policeman Coogan was patrolling his post this morning he saw a roll of money lying on the street. He picked it up and found it to contain bills ranging from $5 to $1,000, and amounting in all to $7,500. He turned it into the Church street station house, where it now awaits an owner.

A Steam Heating Company Assigns.

CINCINNATI, June 13.--The Ohio Steam Heating company assigns to-day to Frank H. Kemper. They attribute their embarassment to the closing a few days ago of a branch house in Rochester, N. Y., upon a claim of only $2,800. The Liabilities are $68,500; assets $69,000.

CHICAGO, June 13.—The annual convention of the order of Railway Telegraphers will be held in Chicago, commencing June 15 and continuing two or three days.

Resumed Work.

PITTSBURG, June 13.—The resumption of work at the Frick coke ovens, now controlled by Dornegie, Phillips & Co., gives employment to about three thousand men.

Fell Down a Gorge and Death Ensues.

ITHACA, N. Y., June 13.—Miss Mary B. Hill, a student in the Freshman class of Cornell university fell yesterdey afternoon from a path leading along the edge of Cascadely gorge to the bottom, a distance of sixty feet. She was so severely injured that she died this morning.

WATER TRANSPORTATION.

The Convention of River and Lake Transportation Men Now in Session at Cincinnati, O.

CINCINNATI, June 13.—The convention of river and lake transportation men, called by the late Captain Stockdale, of Pittsburg, assembled to-day and made a slight beginning toward the object of the meeting which is to protect their interests under the inter-state commerce law. Capt. W. J. Kountz, of Pittsburg, was made permanent chairman and Capt. J. D. Parker, permanent secretary, Captain Kountz, on taking the chair, said the object of the meeting was to form a permanent organization of the steamboat owners on rivers and lakes to resist the encroachments of railroads. The convention was called on to take action in regard to the appointment of a general superintendent of steamboat interests, whose duties it shall be to take cognizance of any complaints of violation of the intert-state commerce law by railroads, by the discriminating on rates. The proper rates for steamboat transportation would also form a matter for consideration by such superintendent. The forenoon was spent in general conversation in which the opinion was general that the inter-state commerce law was to be permanent, and that it portended prosperity for those engaged in water transportation. The persons in attendance from abroad were men of importance in steamboat circles.

THE ORPHAN'S FAIR.

It is Opened With Much Eclat and a Great Attendance.

The Catholic Knights and the Catholic Legion, headed by the City band, made a street parade Saturday evening to herald the opening of the Orphan's fair. The Knights were gorgeous in their uniforms, and returning to the hall Mayor Muhler formally opened the fair in a few admirable words. He praised the institution for which the fair is held, complimented Rt. Rev. Bishop Dwenger and all interested in the noble work, concluding his remarks with the just statement that all people may justly be proud of the new home for orphan children. Very Rev. Father Brammer added a few words and then the festivities began. The spacious hall was thronged. The interior of the building is a picture of lovely booths. For brightness the decorations could hardly be surpassed, and everything about the building partakes of the beautiful.

Devices for charming the dollar from the pocket of the unwary have not been overlooked. There are refreshment booths galore, tended by pretty maids who throw in a smile with every purchase. There are lemonade booths, ice-cream booth, cigar and cigarette booths, flower booths, fancy-work booths, in fact booths for the sale of pretty nearly every imaginable article. For those who have confidence in their luck there are raffles, lotteries and O, there were plenty of ways to spend money.

Reineke's orchestra was in attendance, and to-night the festivities will again recur with refreshing interest.

THE MARKETS.

The Prices From the Great Business Centers of the Country.

NEW YORK, June 13.—The opening of the stock market was weak. The first price being from ⅛ to ¼ per cent. lower generally, though several were unchanged. There was a moderate business in the first half hour, but the market soon became dull, prices were weak in early dealing and further fractional declines from ⅛ to ¼ per cent. were established in general list. When it became dull partial recovery occured and at 11 o'clock the market was quiet and steady to firm.

Auditor Neizer, Treasurer Dalman, J. K. Edgerton, T. S. Locke et al, are defendants and the complainant alleges that the commissioners had no right to build a ditch through the school land, much less to tax the costs of the same against the property.

Last night at 10 p. m. a telegram from Warsaw announced the approach of a balloon, supposed to be the New York World flyer. It passed over the city a little later in a northeasterly direction. The wind was against it but its occupants were steering hither, with a red and white light dangling from the basket. It was lost to sight in half an hour, but at 2 o'clock it approached the city again, and passing over the west end was going in a southeasterly course. But one light was visible then, and at the east Pittsburg yards the night force vainly endeavored to signal it. For three-quarters of an hour the flyer was in sight at a great height. As the New York World balloon did not leave St. Louis until to-day, if at all, the sight last night is a mystery.

JIM LILLIE'S CLAIM.

Governor Oglesby Vetoes His Grant of $36,000 and the Illinois House Adjourns to Defeat it.

It is alleged that the Illinois house of of representatives at Springfield, hastily adjourned Saturday on having been informed that Governor Oglesby was about to present a message vetoing the bill appropriating $36,000 for James Lillie, a contractor, and former resident of Fort Wayne, being a brother of Mr. John Lillie

Gov. Oglesby prepared a message to the House vetoing the Lillie claim of $36,000 for alleged damages sustained in work upon the Kankakee Insane Asylum. It was to have been presented to the House Saturday morning, but that body adjourned until Monday within thirty minutes after the morning session opened and before the veto message was delivered. The constitutional limitation of ten days in which the govenor is allowed to come to a conclusion touching his action on a bill expired Saturday and the charge is freely made in legislative circles that the adjournment was taken in order to head off the veto. Before the house met the governor told several members, including the speaker, that he had an important message to deliver. He insists that the friends of the bill knew he would veto it, but the speaker says nothing was said about the subject matter of the veto. There were sixty-nine members on the floor by count when the house met—less than a quorum—and the speaker says he had information that some members were going to create enough excitement to prevent the transaction of business within a few minutes after the house was called to order. Mr. Fuller, who, by the way, is one of Gov. Oglesby's spokesmen on the floor, moved to adjourn until Monday. A secretary of the senate was then demanding attention to deliver a message, but Mr. Fuller refused to give away while that document was received. The vote on adjournment was taken without roll-call, but was unquestionably largely in favor of adjourning, and was so decided by the speaker, who says he knew nothing about the veto of the Lillie claim and had no interest in it. Gov. Oglesby was very angry about the adjournment and says the friends of the bill knew he would veto it this morning, but that the message was not completed and ready for transmission until twenty minutes after 9 o'clock, at which time the house adjourned.

The governor's private secretary called on Speaker Calhoun Saturday afternoon and delivered the veto message, the receipt of which was acknowledged. There was a good deal of discussion among lawyers as to the right of the governor to veto a bill after a body from which the measure emanated had adjourned, and after the ten days limitation would expire before it resumed its session. In concluding this message the governor says:

"In conclusion I will add that while I am unable to give my approval to this bill I admit the proof shows that Mr. Lillie did sustain some loss which is properly chargeable to the failure to deliver the cut-stone within the time specified in the notices, and if the amount of losses occasioned by such delay was either accurately or approximately shown by the proof, and the appropriation was made for the purpose of covering such losses so shown, I would probably have given such a bill my approval, because I believe the state should comply with its contract obligations and answer for its defaults the same as an individual. RICHARD J. OGLESBY.

The Reunion Concert.

Walter Rogers, the cornet soloist who will be heard at the Band Reunion concert at the Princess rink on Wednesday night, has just returned from Quebec, where he scored a great success. The American Musician, the leading musical paper of this country, in its issue of June 4, says of his performance there: "Mr. Walter Rogers, of New York, played a brilliant cornet solo, a fantasia by Asban, in a most phenomenal manner. Mr. Rogers is quite a young man, yet his mastery of his beautiful yet difficult instrument is really marvellous, and he reminded his audience in many of his better passages of the successes here last season of Signor Liberati. He was of course loudly encored."

Bisides Mr. Rogers there will be heard other soloists, including Herr Otto Soldan, the brilliant violin soloist, Sam Burdett, the tuba solist, and others. The Ligonier band, which captured $1,300 in prizes at Findlay, last Friday, will fill a number on the program and a selected band of sixty musicians will render two suberb selections. The admission to this excellent concert is only fifty cents.

OUT of the $400,000 appropriated by congress to provide armaments and equipments for the militia of the states and territories, Indiana receives $13,824.

IT is stated that the accounts of the secretary-treasurer of the International Typographical union have been ascertained to be in a muddled condition, and that Mr. Pascoe has resigned.

LAST week the Indianapolis Typographical union advanced its scale to thirty-six cents for day work and thirty-eight cents for night work, and all the newspapers have accepted it. A corresponding increase is also made on book and job work.

EX-GOVERNOR GILBERT A. PIERCE, of Dakota, has been elected president of the North Dakota university. Governor Pierce—better known in this state as Colonel Pierce—is an Indiana man, was formerly a member of the legislature, and entered the service from this state, achiving distinction as a staff officer.

EDITOR JOHN P. IRISH of the San Francisco Alta has been visiting his old home in Iowa, and while there took occasion to say that in his opinion Grover Cleveland is a greater man than Gladstone; indeed, the greatest of the modern statesmen. Mr. Irish is recalled as the gentleman who, once upon a time, made a great speech in Fort Wayne.

THE natural gas question is exciting the people of Indianapolis just now to the exclusion of almost every other subject, and frequent meetings are held to decide if possible upon the best method to secure a supply. The Standard Oil company wants a franchise to do the work, but demands rates that will make its use but little less expensive, if any, than that of coal.

THE Louisville Courier-Journal says: "Washington politicians of the Indiana persuasion are discussing the gubernatorial possibilities of that state, and Hon. Wm. R. Meyers, Col. C. C. Matson, Lieutenant Governor Green Smith and Senator Voorhees are mentioned as candidates. The latter, of course, will not run, and the republicans will nominate Col. Robert S. Robertson."

THE brutal coercion law will be in force in Ireland by the 1st of July. The so-called crimes bill will have passed the house of commons about the 20th inst. It will be sent through the lords at a galloping pace. Thereafter, as Sir William Harcourt has expressed it, the liberty of every man and woman in Ireland will be at the mercy of Lord-Lieutenant Castlereagh and the resident magistrates—most of the latter land agents or broken down landlords.

MISS ALICE FREEMAN, the President of Wellesley College, is a young woman whom most of her sex look upon as born under a lucky star, says the Savannah (Ga.) News. With her erect figure, dark hair, big brown eyes, and the glow in her cheeks, she looks the embodiment of nineteenth century womanhood, conscious of strength, rejoicing in new opportunities, and eager to put her just realized powers to the proof. Miss Freeman is a graduate of Michigan University, as are so many of the teachers and successful workers of the day. As a woman her influence over other women is marked. Professors and students of Wellesley alike are loyal to her, and commencement visitors have odd experiences now and then when they seek the President's room of an evening and find a disconsolate graduate or two sobbing away in the darkness over a forgotten glove or a bit of lace, while the unconscious owner is enjoying the festivities of the hour somewhere outside. The trustees of Columbia College, at their centennial jubilation last week, conferred the degree of doctors of letters upon Amelia C. Edwards and upon Miss Freeman, and that of doctor of laws upon Maria Mitchell, professor of astronomy at Vassar College. In these honors the women were associated with such men as Andrew D. White, George William Curtis, George Bancroft, Chief Justice Waite, Mayor Hewitt of New York, and others less eminent. Truly the world moves, and even the most conservative of institutions are thrust forward, though battling with an unwilling step, by its motion.

MRS. MARY L. BART, who is making herself famous as a writer of Scotch dialect stories, hardly touched pen to paper up to the age of 54. She lost her husband, who was Military Governor of Texas, and seven children in the space of twenty-four hours from yellow fever, and found herself left with four little ones and 50 cents in her hands. In course of time she drifted to New York and became a governess in the family of one of A. T. Stewart's partners. Her first tale, which was written at the request of her employer, dealt with life in the old days in Texas, and found a publisher with ease.

THE mother of Munkacsy died in giving him birth. His father tried to free Hungary in 1848 and died in jail, and the future painter was raised by an aunt. She was killed and robbed and he was obliged to go out alone. He was apprenticed to learn the trade of a cabinet-maker, and when he had learned it he worked as a journeyman for 2½ florins a week. That would be about $4 a month—something enormous! In the midst of plenty of work and much misery he borrowed books, studied them, and made rhymes that the boys of the town pronounced fine poetry. In 1861, after living six or seven months without ever tasting a warm meal, he sickened and was ill for a long time. But while abed he determined to become a painter; he learned to draw, and when he was well again he learned how to prepare color and compose pictures.

PROBABLY the most remarkable will ever made was recently drawn up by Alderman Hartman, of Pittsburgh. The testator, Ambrose Retharge, who is 52 years of age, after disposing of $10,000 in real estate, directs as follows: "I direct that my body be taken to St. Michael's Church, and, after the proper religious services are performed, that it be given in charge of my family, who will convey it to Samson's Crematory and there have it burned to ashes, the ashes to be put in a small bottle and given in charge of the German Consul in Pittsburgh. This gentleman will then forward my ashes to the Consul in New York, who will give them in charge of the captain of the German steamer Elbe, who will place them securely in his ship for the ocean voyage. When at mid-ocean I direct the captain to request one of the passengers to dress in a seafaring suit and ascend with my ashes in his hand to the top of the topmost mast, and, after pronouncing a last benediction, to extract the cork from the bottle and cast its contents to the four winds of heaven. I direct, also, while this ceremony is being performed, that it be witnessed by all passengers on board. After the Elbe has completed her trip and returned again to New York, I want a full statement of my death, and the scattering of my ashes in mid-ocean published in the Pittsburgh papers, so that my friends in this city shall know my burial place."

THE prosperity of the United States is always menaced by enterprising people who are striving to do too much, pertinently remarks the Milwaukee Wisconsin: That is, creating large supplies before there is a demand. If all the present railway projects are carried out 21,000 miles of railway will be built this year; and that will require a fixed investment of $500,000,000 of capital. The relaying of 13,000 miles of old track with steel rails will require $100,000,000 more. We do not think that so many miles of new track will be built, but an effort is making in that direction. As an evidence of the rashness of some of these enterprises, it is announced that the Atchison, Topeka and Sante Fe will build a new line from Kansas City to Chicago, 489 miles, requiring an outlay of at least $18,000,000. The company has just concluded a contract for 100,000 tons of steel rails, and it is supposed these rails are intended for the Chicago and Kansas City line. Inasmuch as there are already four roads from Chicago to Kansas City, it seems like putting in the fifth wheel of a wagon. Another serious menace is the large destruction of property by fire. This waste annually absorbs $100,000,000 of money. It is much worse than any permanent investment, because it is an utter annihilation of that amount of property. The waste goes on increasing from year to year. It not only bankrupts many persons and renders their lives hopeless and cheerless, but nearly ruins all investments in insurance companies, and to that extent is a dead weight on capital. Foreign nations do not earn as much as the United States, but they do not waste as much; and, therefore, the balance-sheet of savings is not so widely different. France has a population of 37,000,000, and covers a large territory, yet the annual destruction of property by fire in all France does not probably exceed $1,000,000.

Scarlet Fever and Diphtheria are spread by contagion, by the transfer of living matter. These particles come from the skin, the membranous lining of the mouth, nose and throat, and from the intestines and urinary organs. Disinfect promptly and thoroughly witth Darbys Prophylactic Fluid, the great germ destroyer.

Prof. H. T. Lupton, of the Vanderbilt University, Tenn., says: "As a disinfectant and detergent Darbys Prophylactic Fluid is superior to any preparation with which I am acquainted."

THE editor of the Catholic Review must have served an apprenticeship on a newspaper editorial staff. It has the following excellent suggestion of a way to discourage prize-fighting: "In England, the birthplace and home of prize-fighting as a profession, while boxing has by no means become a lost art, prize-fighting, so far as the general public is concerned, has fallen into utter disrepute and become a very precarious means of livelihood. Why? Because the press buried it under silence. Over here just now prize-fighting flourishes, though even here there are growing signs of decay. Why does it flourish? Because the press chronicles it. Is it not a duty which the press owes to its own dignity and honor as well as to public morals to shut down resolutely on this brutal fraud?"

THE Supreme Court of Ohio in a recent case involving rebates and discrimination in favor of the Standard Oil Company held that such abuses of corporate franchises by a railroad corporation would justify the revocation of its charter. Such a course, the court said, could be taken without the authority of any statute and simply by virtue of the principles of the common law. It is well to bear this important doctrine in mind. Public corporations are created and endowed with certain special powers with a view to the common good, but when they subvert this purpose, and become extortionate monopolies, and deal wrongfully and oppressively with the public they may be declared nuisances and wiped out of existence. There is, in extreme cases, a death penalty for corporations as well as for natural persons.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.—MRS. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferers at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving he child from pain, and the little cherub wakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

Care for the Children

Children feel the debility of the changing seasons, even more than adults, and they become cross, peevish, and uncontrollable. The blood should be cleansed and the system invigorated by the use of Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"Last Spring my two children were vaccinated. Soon after, they broke all out with running sores, so dreadful I thought I should lose them. Hood's Sarsaparilla cured them completely; and they have been healthy ever since. I do feel that Hood's Sarsaparilla saved my children to me." MRS. C. L. THOMPSON, West Warren, Mass.

Purify the Blood

Hood's Sarsaparilla is characterized by three peculiarities: 1st, the combination of remedial agents; 2d, the proportion; 3d, the process of securing the active medicinal qualities. The result is a medicine of unusual strength, effecting cures hitherto unknown. Send for book containing additional evidence.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla tones up my system, purifies my blood, sharpens my appetite, and seems to make me over." J. P. THOMPSON, Register of Deeds, Lowell, Mass.

Moonlight Nights the Bane of Engineers.

"Moonlight nights—they are the bane of railroad engineers," remarked a head official of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. He is a gentleman who knows every branch of railroading.

"I would have thought that the trainmen would be glad to have moonlight nights," interposed the writer.

"No, sir. All engineers dread moonlight nights. They try the nerves of engineers to their utmost. Engineers like to run on dark nights. On a moonlight night the trouble with them is no trouble at all—shadows. An engineer, looking out from his engine, sees before him all manner of shadows. He is sure that the dark shadow across the track he sees is a man, or a rock, or some kind of an obstruction. He don't know, and he is kept in a state of nervous excitement all the time. Going around curves, along hillsides, many curious shadows are outlined on the track, and very often an engineer is so worked up over a night's ride that he is scarcely able to perform his duties."

"Some years ago, when I was going over the main stem of the Baltimore and Ohio, one night, there was a freight wreck ahead of us. They were running freights in convoys then, or, as we now call them, in sections. Our train was stopped, and I went forward to see what was the damage. Lying in a cut was about the worst freight wreck I have ever seen. I went forward to see what the trouble was. It was a moonlight night, and when I got forward I saw the engineer. He was shaking all over with excitement. He was one of the oldest and best engineers on the road, and I was surprised to see him so nervous, as he had escaped unhurt.

"'What is the trouble, Tom?' I asked him. I could see nothing wrong.

"'It was a rock,' replied Tom. 'I was coming round the curve when I saw it. It was a big one—big enough to smash a whole train. I reversed the engine to save a smash-up, and the cars coming down the grade just piled up in the shape you see them.'

"I looked around, but could see no rock anywhere. The wreck was cleared away that night, and there wasn't a sign of an obstruction near the locomotive. We all were curious to find out what had caused the trouble. The next night a railroad man went to the cut, and there, in the moonlight, he saw a perfect image of a big rock lying right across the track. He looked up on the hillside, and there was a big rock throwing its shadow down on the track. That was the shadow that caused a wreck that cost the company thousands of dollars. No, sir, if an engineer wants things to suit him, he don't want moonlight by which to run his train."—Pittsburgh Chronicle.

A Retrospect.

The recent action of the Harvard College authorities, in striking Greek from the list of studies required for the degree of A. B., marks an area in the history of college education in this country. The long struggle, which has been carried on at times with much bitterness between the classical and modern party, has been distinctly advanced one stage toward a final settlement. The adherents of the classical course have steadily claimed for it a marked superiority over others, and have uniformly resisted any attempt to change or supplant it. The friends of the new studies have as vigorously contended that it is perfectly possible to construct a curriculum which, while omitting some of the specific subjects before included and substituting others for them, should still as fully deserve the name liberal as the old course.

The struggle has assumed different forms at different times. At one period it was simply an attempt on the part of those who thought modern subjects worthy of recognition besides the antiquities to secure for them some place in the college curriculum. This demand, modest as it was, was resisted with the same obstinacy as that which has characterized the opposition to later and far more sweeping demands. It was a great day for American education when modern subjects, such as the natural and physical science, history, English and other modern languages, and social science, were finally admitted to a place in the curriculum of the colleges. It was insisted, however, that space should be found for them, not by cutting the time given to Greek and Latin, but simply by demanding more in these subjects for admission, and thus giving to them as much time as was given before and lengthening the college course correspondingly, so that a college boy is now much older than he was half a century ago. When further demands were made with irresistible force, they were finally met by a relactant permission to establish so-called modern or Latin-scientific, or scientific courses, parallel with the old, but carrying with them a separate degree which did not recognize the candidate as a liberally educated man, whatever else he might be. It was thus that the field lay, when Dr. Eliot began fifteen years ago his career as President of Harvard College. An earnest agitation was shortly begun to make Greek elective in the course for the degree of A. B. It was maintained that the facilities for study, and methods of teaching, etc., in the modern studies had been so far perfected that they could put something else in the place of Greek and still fairly claim for the man who had completed the course the proud title of bachelor of liberal arts. —Popular Science Monthly.

It Would Knock Her Out.

The Empress of Germany gives a golden cross to every servant in the empire who remains forty years in one situation. If her majesty would come to America and make that offer to every girl who had forty places in one year, she could go into total bankruptcy with no assets in one week.—Bob Burdette.

A Good Man's Tenderness.

Boys are sometimes tempted to think that to be tender-hearted is to be weak and unmanly. Yet the tenderest heart may be associated with the strongest and most forcible mind and will. Take for example, the story told to him to whom we owe our great railway system. George Stephenson went one day into an upper room of his house and closed the window. It had been left open a long time because of the great heat, but now the weather was becoming cooler, and so Mr. Stephenson thought it would be well to shut it. He little knew at the time what he was doing. Two or three days afterward, however, he chanced to observe a bird flying against that same window, and beating against it with all its might, again and again, as if trying to break it. His sympathy and curiosity were aroused. What could the little thing want? He at once went to the room and opened the window to see. The window opened, the bird flew straight to one particular spot in the room, where Stephenson saw a nest—that little bird's nest. The poor bird looked at it, took the sad story in at a glance, and fluttered down to the floor, broken-hearted, almost dead.

Stephenson, drawing near to look, was filled with unspeakable sorrow. There sat the mother bird, and under it four tiny little young ones—mother and young ones all apparently dead. Stephenson cried aloud. He tenderly lifted the exhausted bird from the floor, the worm it had so long and bravely struggled to bring to its home and its young still in its beak, and carefully tried to revive it; but all his efforts proved in vain. It speedily died, and the great man mourned for many a day. At that time the force of George Stephenson's mind was changing the face of the earth, yet he wept at the sight of this dead family, and was deeply grieved because he himself had unconsciously been the cause of death. —Manchester Times.

The Cowardice of Animals.

Not long since the writer saw Mr. Thompson, a dealer in live animals, open a box containing an anaconda, take the reptile by the throat, and calmly examine its mouth, opened though it was in rage, to look for cancerous tumors. Then from adjoining shelves he took python after python, each about ten feet long, and examined them in like manner. Only last week at the place of another dealer—Reiche—a big, powerful Syrian bear, a type known for its ferocity, was subdued without the firing of a shot. The bear broke through iron bars half an inch thick, and, standing up with his back against a cage of monkeys, thrust his terrible paw threateningly toward three keepers gathered about him. He didn't have a chance to use them, however, for he was belabored with clubs until glad to get back again into his cage.

On a pedestal near the gate of the Cincinnati zoological gardens there recently stood the stuffed figure of a donkey which, when alive, stood the attack of a lion and beat him off. The lion, it seems, had broken out of his cage and escaped to a wood near by. On a grassy hillock adjoining, a donkey lay stretched in placid slumber—a slumber that was rudely disturbed by the lion, who, in a few bounds was upon him. When the donkey felt the great mass of flesh descend upon him as if from the clouds, he was stunned and indignant, but not frightened, perhaps because he had never read any of the wonderful stories about the lion. He quickly recovered from the blow, and, rising, shot out both hind feet at the same time and caught the lion squarely in the forehead. Badly hurt, the lion skulked off and later the donkey died of the wound he received at the onset. —Scientific American.

Some Advice to Wives.

Remember that you are married to a man and not to a God; be prepared for imperfections.

Anticipate the discovery by your husband that you are "only a woman;" if you were not he would not care about you.

Once in a while let your husband have the last word; it will gratify him and be no particular loss to you.

Be reasonable; it is a great deal to ask under some circumstances, but do try; reasonable women are rare—be rare.

Remember that servants are made of the same material that you are; a little coarser grained, perhaps, but the same in essentials.

Try and forget yourself; as to your husband, forget that you married him, and remember that he married you; he will then probably do the reverse.

Let him read the newspaper at breakfast table; it is unsociable, but, then, it is only a trifle, after all, and he likes it.

Let him know more than you do once in a while; it keeps up his self-respect, and you will be none the worse for admitting that you are not actually infallible.

Read something in the papers besides fashion notes and society columns; have some knowledge of what is going on in foreign countries.

Be a companion to your husband if he is a wise man; and if he is not, try to make him become your companion. Raise his standard, do not let him lower yours.

Respect your husband's relations, especially his mother—she is not the less his mother because she is your mother-in-law; she loved him before you did. —Brooklyn Magazine.

Getting Rid of a Runaway Horse.

The horseback rider who should strap himself to his beast so that he could not dismount in case of the horse's falling or rolling or other accident would be considered foolhardy, but men and women will sit in a vehicle which is securely hitched to a horse, and, if the animal runs away, remain in it in the hope of controlling it until it is dangerous to jump and dangerous to remain. In such a case a simple apparatus, which can easily be imagined, for detaching the shafts or pole from a carriage and freeing the vehicle, would remove all danger to human life and limb and allow the ferocious animal to continue its mad career without imperilling its human passengers.—Norwich Bulletin.

SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR

DYSPEPSIA

Up to a few weeks ago I considered myself the champion Dyspeptic of America. During the years that I have been afflicted I have tried almost everything claimed to be a specefic for Dyspepsia in the hope of finding something that would afford permanent relief. I had about made up my mind to adandon all medicines when I noticed an endorsement of SIMMON'S LIVER REGULATOR by a prominent Georgian, a jurist whom I knew, and concluded to try its effects in my case. I have used but two bottles, and am satisfied that I have struck the right thing at last. I felt its beneficial effects almost immediately. Unlike all other preparations of a similar kind, no special instructions are required as to what one shall or shall not eat. This fact alone ought to commend it to all troubled with Dyspepsia.

THE CITY NEWS.

The council will meet to-morrow evening.

The band tournament occurs Wednesday and Thursday.

Entertainment and festival at the Railroad reading rooms.

The Wabash road runs an excursion to Toledo, June 15.

Capt. Frank Rawles was at Lafayette yesterday spending the day.

The street car line to the east end did a thriving business yesterday.

The members of the Morton club will hold a business meeting in their hall to-night.

The Business Men's exchange meets to-night to arrange the Fourth of July celebration.

Quarterly meeting services were held yesterday in the Berry street and Simpson M. E. churches.

One week from to-morrow will be the longest day in the year. The day's length will be fifteen hours.

Blair Mock, the Huntington murderer, has been assigned to service in the woolen mills at the penitentiary at Michigan City.

Dr. Mock, of Huntington, is going to remove to Marion, Ind. His son, Al. Mock, will manage a drug store at Bucyrus, Ohio.

Engineer Homer Bennett, recently on the main line of the Wabash, has accepted a position on the Cincinnati, Wabash and Michigan railway.

General Manager Williams, of the Nickle Plate road, was in the city last evening. He was in consultation with Hon. R. C. Bell, the solicitor for the company.

Mr. J. H. Simonson, manager of the Temple opera house, left for New York this morning. He will make the bookings for that popular play house and visit his family, who are now in the east.

The rivers are still very muddy, as a result of the recent rains, and the many fishermen who went in quest of the finny tribe yesterday returned with poor reward for their desecration of the Lord's day.

The Huntington Herald says: "Rev. S. A. Northrop, of Fort Wayne, was in Huntington, Thursday, to arrange a program for the Fort Wayne Baptist association which meets in this city September 13."

The Huntington Hearld says: "Mrs. Geo. B. Hench, wife of the business manager of the American Farmer, is the guest of the family of J. S. Provines and other friends of this city. Her husband will join her to-morrow and remain in the city over the Sabbath."

The Logansport Journal remarks: "S. C. Tough, of Fort Wayne, is the name of a person registered at one of our hotels, but we cannot positively assert that the man is a tough. We may only draw such an inference by what he has put down in black and white."

The baccalaureate address to the members of the graduating class of the Fort Wayne M. E. college was preached at the Berry street Methodist church yesterday afternoon by the Rev F. G. Browne. The address was a masterly production and the reverend gentleman held his audience as attentive listeners to its close.

The First and Third Presbyterian churches united yesterday morning in union services at the First church. Rev. David S. Kennedy preached an able discourse to the parents, and the children of the three Presbyterian Sabbath schools were entertained in the afternoon by an interesting address from the Rev. J. M. Fulton.

The Michigan City Dispatch says: "Sheriff Viberg, of Allen county, yesterday landed in the Northern Indiana prison Samuel Ward, colored, who gets two years for burglary; George Werner, who will serve the same term for a like offense, and Jacob Stegemeyer, who gets one year for petit larceny. Ward is an old criminal and a razor slinger, much feared by the colored people of Fort Wayne. He is remembered at the penitentiary for his desperate character while serving a sentence for murderous assault."

The Grand Rapids railroad company paid their employes to-day.

Next Wednesday will be pay day at Olds' Wagon and Wheel Works.

Fred. Eix and Nancy Case, Gotleib W. Heine and Bertha Blombach have been licensed to wed.

"Nigger Jennie," a depraved female, was excused by the mayor this morning on her promise to do better.

The Pittsburg shops finished a new locomotive engine last week, and it was placed on this division of the road.

John Van Buskirk, the sheriff of Baker county, Florida, with his son, is in the city visiting Dr. Van Buskirk.

George Bonnett, an employe in the Bass foundry, had his foot badly burned Saturday and will be laid up for several days.

The Peru Republican says the railroad down the old Wabash canal path would have been built long ago had Wabash voted for it when Peru did.

The cottage prayer meeting of the Y. M. C. A. will be held at the residence of Mr. J. H. Adams, 82 East Berry street, Tuesday evening at 7:30. All are welcome.

Mr. Adam King, an old and respected citizen of Wells county, committed suicide last night by cutting his throat in his own barn. No cause is assigned for the rash act.

Geo. DeWald & Co., are building an additional story and making other improvements to their extensive store rooms on the corner of Calhoun and Columbia streets.

Will E. Davis, the yardmaster at the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago railroad, who has been on a visit in the east, returned home on Saturday and reports having had a delightful time.

Judge Woods has cancelled his engagement to hold a session of the federal court here this week. The federal court business is a rank farce, and Fort Wayne is denied the prominence the bill entitles the city to enjoy.

Will Covey, the proof-reader at the Newspaper Union, went fishing on Saturday night, but as he has failed to report the number of fish caught, it is safe to say that the result of his expedition was a total failure.

The Bass Foundry and Machine Works have just completed a new locomotive boiler of 18,000 pounds, which will be shipped to Moberly, Mo., and two others of about the same size are nearing completion at the shops.

Geo. Metz, Constable John Case, Wm. Stuart, Henry Shoaff and Fern Van Cann hit the dark bottle too freely and stood before the mayor this morning to answer the charge of drunkenness. Case went to jail while the others paid or were hustling.

On Sunday morning occurred the death of Clara Raiser, the twelve-year-old daughter of the late George Raiser. The funeral will take place Tuesday afternoon at half past one o'clock from the residence, 46 West Berry street. Services at the German Reformed church.

The Platt Deutsche Fritz Reuter Verein were at Rome City over Sunday. They were royally entertained at the resort and had a great time. John Schaffer carried off the fish honors and landed a "14½ and a half pound pike" to use his own or Andy Kalbacher's expression, we don't know which.

Jacob Tribolet, of Bluffton, was in the city to-day on his way to northern Michigan where he goes to visit one of the watering places in search of his health. Mr. Tribolet is troubled with catarrhal and rheumatic affections and hopes that the climate and water of these northern resorts may be beneficial to him.

The game of base ball between the two nines of the Newspaper Union on Saturday was an interesting affair and was witnessed by a large crowd of spectaters, who enjoyed the sport of seeing the fellows get their hands banged and fingers smashed. The game must have been a fine one, as the score stood forty to thirty when the game closed.

Two of the members of the graduating class of the Central Grammar school, who finished their course last Friday evening will go immediately from their school work to the active duties of business life. Albert Foster will take a position in the Foster Furniture company and Robert S. Robertson will enter the hardware establishment of G. W. Seavey & Co.

The work on the building of the new addition to the Bass foundry and machine works has been commenced. It will be built of corrugaled iron and brick and will be 70x350 feet in diameter, and will accommodate about 200 additional men. This firm is doing an immense business and when they get into their new quarters, which will probably be about the 1st of August, the establishment will have in their employ over 1,000.

The Indianapolis Journal says: "The governor, auditor, secretary and treasurer of state have decided that it would not be wise, in the present condition of state funds, to purchase now the land desired for the school for feeble-minded children at Fort Wayne. No building can be erected until next year, and an expenditure of $10,000 for land at this time, when the money could be used for more pressing purposes, would be embarrassing to some extent. The feeble-minded are well cared for at the new insane hospital at Richmond."

Mr. W. W. Rockhill left for the east last night on the limited express, via the Pittsburg and Fort Wayne road. He will sojourn at the sea shore a week or so before undertaking the sea voyage and a trip to the famous springs at Carlsbad, Bohemia, in company with Mr. Will Oppenheim. Quite a party of Mr. Rockhill's friends were at the depot to say good bye and wish him health and pleasure. During Mr. Rockhill's absence Treasurer Berghoff will have charge of his office, assisted by Charley Reese, jr.

EXAMINE BEFORE YOU BUY.

WHEN in the grocer's store you stand
And cakes of IVORY SOAP demand,
Be careful not to be misled
And imitations take instead,
For dealers oft will praises sing
Of that which may more profit bring.
Let not your senses clouded be
Because a snowy cake you see,
For villainy is not confined
To darkest colors, bear in mind,
And oft the sham is not remote
From fairest face or whitest coat.
Examine well with careful eye
The cake until the name you spy,
And always thus be well assured
That IVORY SOAP you have procured;
And should a lingering doubt remain,
'Twill vanish, like the darkest stain,
When in the tub on washing day
That cake of soap is brought in play.

A WORD OF WARNING.

There are many white soaps, each represented to be "just as good as the 'vory';" they ARE NOT, but like all counterfeits, lack the peculiar and remarkable qualities of the genuine. Ask for "Ivory" Soap and insist upon getting it.

Receiver Lumbard tells us that the double street car track will be laid on Calhoun street, as soon as the water pipes are in. Iron for the Bloomingdale extension is being hauled

If you have not been to Warsaw this season, avail yourself of the opportunity and go along with the Plymouth church excursion to-morrow, June 14. Train leaves south depot at 6:30 a. m. Fare for the round trip $1.

The Standard club will occupy their new parlors in Judge Ninde's building, at the corner of Berry and Harrison streets, in a few weeks. The parlors will be handsomely furnished and will be elegant quarters for this popular club.

Mrs. I. Fisher and Miss Carrie Fisher left for Mt. Clemens, Mich., this morning and will be absent from the city for about four weeks. Mrs. Fisher is afflicted with rheumatism and visits Mt. Clemens to find relief in the curative powers of the water at that health-giving resort.

Deputy Sheriff Schrader went to the Bass foundry with a warrant to arrest Wm. Nahrwald, who is wanted on a charge of being accessary, with Fred. Boumeister, to the stabbing of Mr. Royle, at a dance, in the eastern part of the city. Mr. Schrader went to the office and sent for Nahwrald. That gentleman put on his coat and left for parts unknown to the deputy sheriff and he is not likely to be tried for attempting to kill Boyle very soon.

The following building permits have been granted: Chas. Jacobs, to erect a wood shed costing $25, on lot 230, Hanna's addition, to John M. Meham, to erect a one-story frame house costing $850 on lot 3, Chute's homestead; to Robt. Kell, to erect a frame addition to his house, costing $400, on lot 29, Clark's addition; to A. F. Besancon, to erect a one-story frame costing $300, on lot 13, McCulloch's addition, and to Frederick Fink, to erect an addition to his house, costing $500, on lot 2, in Ninde's second addition.

WILLIE BRYANT.

A Run Away Lad from Fort Wayne Arrested at Cincinnati.

The Sunday Cincinnati Enquirer says: "Willie Bryant, a fifteen-year-old boy, went into a Central-avenue pawnbroker's shop, about three o'clock yesterday afternoon, and tried to pledge a gold watch and chain. The pawnbroker hesitated and began to ask some questions, when the boy ran out and started up the street. The pawnbroker followed and overhauled him, after a chase of a square. He was brought up to Central station, where he stated that his name was Bryant, and that he had run away from his home at Fort Wayne, Ind. He is held on suspicion, awaiting news from his family.

Ex-Secretary Manning's Opinion of President Cleveland.

NEW YORK, June 13.—The Herald prints an interview with Mr. Daniel J. Manning in which he says: "I consider Mr. Cleveland the winning card in the political game. If there be opposition in his party it will not hurt him. Mr. Cleveland is a party man, but a discreet party man.

HUNG TO A TREE.

The Infuriated Citizens of Jamestown, Ohio, Lynch a Negro Who Attempted Rape on a Colored Woman.

XENIA, O., June 13.—At Jamestown, this county, Saturday night about midnight, Peter Betters, a colored man, made a desperate attempt at murder and rape upon an old colored woman named Martha Thomas, aged seventy-five years. The alarm was given and the assailant arrested, but he broke through the guard and escaped. The neighborhood was greatly excited over the affair, and the fugitive negro was hunted down. In the fair grounds, where the cyclone played such fearful havoc some time ago, there are many trees bent by the storm and they made an excellent gallows. To one of these the dead body of Betters was found hanging this morning, cold and dead. Whether hung by the mob or by his own hand, cannot be determined at this time, but it is generally known that the work was quietly done by the infuriated citizens of Jamestown in the dead hour of the night, and strict secrecy sworn on the spot by the avengers.

POISONED BEER.

Indications of Arsenic Having Been Put in a Drink and Death Results.

WASHINGTON, Ind., June 13.—Yesterday evening the wife and five-year-old and only child of A. J. Dant, deputy county recorder, took suddenly ill directly after drinking some bottled beer and the little girl continued to grow worse, suffering terrible agony until four o'clock, when she died with what our best physicians pronounce arsenical poisoning. Mrs. Dant has also suffered greatly, but is said to be out of danger tonight. One of the physicians who have examined the body gives it as his opinion that she has only had hysterics, and the horrible suspicion has been expressed that the child has been the victim of foul play. An inquest will be held on the body of the child, and perhaps an autopsy and an analysis of the contents of its stomach. The little girl was a daughter of a former wife of Mr. Dant.

Arrested for Arson.

KOKOMO, Ind., June 13.—It is generally understood about town that two laborers, Wm. and Joseph Malush, brothers, married men, probably between twenty five and thirty years of age, are under arrest for setting fire to the business block, causing the big fire here January 18, 1887, when five three-story business houses with a great part of their contents, were burned, causing a loss of nearly $75,000. It is current rumor that they have made a confession of the crime, and have implicated others, said to be most prominent parties, high up in business and social circles. Officers are working the matter up, and keeping closed mouths until other arrests are made, which are expected to create a sensation beyond anything occurring here for years.

Church Closed Against a Funeral.

NEW YORK, June 12.—The funeral of Charles D. Keep, editor of the Wall street News, was to have taken place at St. Vincent's R. C. church, but when the friends arrived they found the church closed. It was said the Dominican Fathers in charge had refused to permit the funeral services at the church because the deceased, who was a Roman Catholic, had a divorced wife living when he married again.

Death of a Prominent Abolitionist.

BOSTON, June 13.—The Hon. James M. Bugham, one of the last of the band of abolitionists led by Garrison and Phillips, died at his home in Lynn last evening. Mr. Bugham has been gradually failing for several months and his death was known to be not far in the future when he celebrated his eightieth birthday a few weeks ago.

An Honest Policeman.

NEW YORK, June 12.—While Policeman Cogan was patrolling his post this morning he saw a roll of money lying on the street. He picked it up and found it to contain bills ranging from $5 to $1,000, and amounting in all to $7,500. He turned it into the Church street station house, where it now awaits an owner.

A Steam Heating Company Assigns.

CINCINNATI, June 13.—The Ohio Steam Heating company assigns to-day to Frank H. Kemper. They attribute their embarrassment to the closing a few days ago of a branch house in Rochester, N. Y., upon a claim of only $2,900. The liabilities are $68,500; assets $59,000.

CHICAGO, June 13.—The annual convention of the order of Railway Telegraphers will be held in Chicago, commencing June 15 and continuing two or three days.

Resumed Work.

PITTSBURG, June 13.—The resumption of work at the Frick coke ovens, now controlled by Dorsegie, Phillips & Co., gives employment to about three thousand men.

Fell Down a Gorge and Death Ensues.

ITHACA, N. Y., June 13.—Miss Mary B. Hill, a student in the Freshman class of Cornell university fell yesterday after noon from a path leading along the edge of Cascadely gorge to the bottom, a distance of sixty feet. She was so severely injured that she died this morning.

WATER TRANSPORTATION.

The Convention of River and Lake Transportation Men Now in Session at Cincinnati, O.

CINCINNATI, June 13.—The convention of river and lake transportation men, called by the late Captain Stockdale, of Pittsburg, assembled to-day and made a slight beginning toward the object of the meeting which is to protect their interests under the inter-state commerce law. Capt. W. J. Kountz, of Pittsburg, was made permanent chairman and Capt. J. D. Parker, permanent secretary. Captain Kountz, on taking the chair, said the object of the meeting was to form a permanent organization of the steamboat owners on rivers and lakes to resist the encroachments of railroads. The convention was called on to take action in regard to the appointment of a general superintendent of steamboat interests, whose duties it shall be to take cognizance of any complaints of violation of the inter-state commerce law by railroads, by the discriminating on rates. The proper rates for steamboat transportation would also form a matter for consideration by such superintendent. The forenoon was spent in general conversation in which the opinion was general that the inter-state commerce law was to be permanent, and that it portended prosperity for those engaged in water transportation. The persons in attendance from abroad were men of importance in steamboat circles.

THE ORPHANS' FAIR.

It is Opened With Much Eclat and a Great Attendance.

The Catholic Knights and the Catholic Legion, headed by the City band, made a street parade Saturday evening to herald the opening of the Orphan's fair. The Knights were gorgeous in their uniforms, and returning to the hall Mayor Muhler formally opened the fair in a few admirable words. He praised the institution for which the fair is held, complimented Rt. Rev. Bishop Dwenger and all interested in the noble work, concluding his remarks with the just statement that all people may justly be proud of the new home for orphan children. Very Rev. Father Brammer added a few words and then the festivities began. The spacious hall was thronged. The interior of the building is a picture of lovely booths. For brightness the decorations could hardly be surpassed, and everything about the building partakes of the beautiful.

Devices for charming the dollar from the pocket of the unwary have not been overlooked. There are refreshment booths galore, tended by pretty maids who throw in a smile with every purchase. There are lemonade booths, ice-cream booth, cigar and cigarette booths, flower booths, fancy-work booths, in fact booths for the sale of pretty nearly every imaginable article. For those who have confidence in their luck there are raffles, lotteries and O, there were plenty of ways to spend money.

Reinecke's orchestra was in attendance, and to-night the festivities will again recur with refreshing interest.

THE MARKETS.

The Prices From the Great Business Centers of the Country.

NEW YORK, June 13.—The opening of the stock market was weak. The first prices being from ¼ to ¾ per cent. lower generally, though several were unchanged. There was a moderate business in the first half hour, but the market soon became dull, prices were weak in early dealing and farther fractional declines from ¼ to ¾ per cent. were established in general list. When it became dull partial recovery occured and at 11 o'clock the market was quiet and steady to firm.

Auditor Neiser, Treasurer Dalman, J. K. Edgerton, T. S. Locke et al, are defendants and the complainant alleges that the commissioners had no right to build a ditch through the school land, much less to tax the costs of the same against the property.

Last night at 10 p. m. a telegram from Warsaw announced the approach of a balloon, supposed to be the New York World flyer. It passed over the city a little later in a northeasterly direction. The wind was against it but its occupants were steering hither, with a red and white light dangling from the basket. It was lost to sight in half an hour, but at 2 o'clock it approached the city again, and passing over the west end was going in a southeasterly course. But one light was visible then, and at the east Pittsburg yards the night force vainly endeavored to signal it. For three-quarters of an hour the flyer was in sight at a great height. As the New York World balloon did not leave St. Louis until to-day, if at all, the sight last night is a mystery.

JIM LILLIE'S CLAIM.

Governor Oglesby Vetoes His Grant of $36,000 and the Illinois House Adjourns to Defeat It.

It is alleged that the Illinois house of representatives at Springfield, hastily adjourned Saturday on having been informed that Governor Oglesby was about to present a message vetoing the bill appropriating $36,000 for James Lillie, a contractor, and former resident of Fort Wayne, being a brother of Mr. John Lillie.

Gov. Oglesby prepared a message to the House vetoing the Lillie claim of $36,000 for alleged damages sustained in work upon the Kankakee Insane Asylum. It was to have been presented to the House Saturday morning, but that body adjourned until Monday within thirty minutes after the morning session opened and before the veto message was delivered. The constitutional limitation of ten days in which the governor is allowed to come to a conclusion touching his action on a bill expired Saturday and the charge is freely made in legislative circles that the adjournment was taken in order to head off the veto. Before the house met the governor told several members, including the speaker, that he had an important message to deliver. He insists that the friends of the bill knew he would veto it, but the speaker says nothing was said about the subject matter of the veto. There were sixty-nine members on the floor by count when the house met—less than a quorum—and the speaker says he had information that some members were going to create enough excitement to prevent the transaction of business within a few minutes after the house was called to order. Mr. Fuller, who, by the way, is one of Gov. Oglesby's spokesmen on the floor, moved to adjourn until Monday. A secretary of the senate was then demanding attention to deliver a message, but Mr. Fuller refused to give away while that document was received. The vote on adjournment was taken without roll-call, but was unquestionably largely in favor of adjourning, and was so decided by the speaker, who says he knew nothing about the veto of the Lillie claim and had no interest in it. Gov. Oglesby was very angry about the adjournment and says the friends of the bill knew he would veto it this morning, but that the message was not completed and ready for transmission until twenty minutes after 9 o'clock, at which time the house adjourned.

The governor's private secretary called on Speaker Calhoun Saturday afternoon and delivered the veto message, the receipt of which was acknowledged. There was a good deal of discussion among lawyers as to the right of the governor to veto a bill after a body from which the measure emanated had adjourned, and after the ten days limitation would expire before it resumed its session. In concluding this message the governor says:

"In conclusion I will add that while I am unable to give my approval to this bill I admit the proof shows that Mr. Lillie did sustain some loss which is properly chargeable to the failure to deliver the cut-stone within the time specified in the notices, and if the amount of losses occasioned by such delay was either accurately or approximately shown by the proof, and the appropriation was made for the purpose of covering such losses so shown, I would probably have given such a bill my approval, because I believe the state should comply with its contract obligations and answer for its defaults the same as an individual. RICHARD J. OGLESBY.

The Reunion Concert.

Walter Rogers, the cornet a doist who will be heard at the Band Reunion concert at the Princess rink on Wednesday night, has just returned from Quebec, where he scored a great success. The American Musician, the leading musical paper of this country, in its issue of June 4, says of his performance there: "Mr. Walter Rogers, of New York, played a brilliant cornet solo, a fantasia by Asban, in a most phenomenal manner. Mr. Rogers is quite a young man, yet his mastery of his beautiful yet difficult instrument is really marvellous, and he reminded his audience in many of his better passages of the unsurpassable last season of Signor Liberia. It was of course loudly encored."

Besides Mr. Rogers there will be heard other soloists, including Herr Otto Soldan, the brilliant violin soloist, Sam Burdett, the tuba soloist, and others. The Logonier band, which captured $1,300 in prizes at Findlay, last Friday, will fill a number on the program and a selected band of sixty musicians will render two suberb selections. The admission to this excellent concert is only fifty cents.

OUT of the $400,000 appropriated by congress to provide armaments and equipments for the militia of the states and territories, Indiana receives $13,-924.

IT is stated that the accounts of the secretary-treasurer of the International Typographical union have been ascertained to be in a muddled condition, and that Mr. Pascoe has resigned.

LAST week the Indianapolis Typographical union advanced its scale to thirty-six cents for day work and thirty-eight cents for night work, and all the newspapers have accepted it. A corresponding increase is also made on book and job work.

EX-GOVERNOR GILBERT A. PIERCE, of Dakota, has been elected president of the North Dakota university. Governor Pierce—better known in this state as Colonel Pierce—is an Indiana man, was formerly a member of the legislature, and entered the service from this state, achieving distinction as a staff officer.

EDITOR JOHN P. IRISH of the San Francisco Alta has been visiting his old home in Iowa, and while there took occasion to say that in his opinion Grover Cleveland is a greater man than Gladstone; indeed, the greatest of the modern statesmen. Mr. Irish is recalled as the gentleman who, once upon a time, made a great speech in Fort Wayne.

THE natural gas question is exciting the people of Indianapolis just now to the exclusion of almost every other subject, and frequent meetings are held to decide if possible upon the best method to secure a supply. The Standard Oil company wants a franchise to do the work, but demands rates that will make its use but little less expensive, if any, than that of coal.

THE Louisville Courier-Journal says: "Washington politicians of the Indiana persuasion are discussing the gubernatorial possibilities of that state, and Hon. Wm. R. Meyers, Col. C. C. Matson, Lieutenant Governor Green Smith and Senator Voorhees are mentioned as candidates. The latter, of course, will not run, and the republicans will nominate Col. Robert S. Robertson."

THE brutal coercion law will be in force in Ireland by the 1st of July. The so-called crimes bill will have passed the house of commons about the 20th inst. It will be sent through the lords at a galloping pace. Thereafter, as Sir William Harcourt has expressed it, the liberty of every man and woman in Ireland will be at the mercy of Lord-Lieutenant Castlereagh and the resident magistrates—most of the latter land agents or broken down landlords.

MISS ALICE FREEMAN, the President of Wellesley College, is a young woman whom most of her sex look upon as born under a lucky star, says the Savannah (Ga.) News. With her erect figure, dark hair, big brown eyes, and the glow in her cheeks, she looks the embodiment of nineteenth century womanhood, conscious of strength, rejoicing in new opportunities, and eager to put her just realized powers to the proof. Miss Freeman is a graduate of Michigan University, as are so many of the teachers and successful workers of the day. As a woman her influence over other women is marked. Professors and students of Wellesley alike are loyal to her, and commencement visitors have odd experiences now and then when they seek the President's room of an evening and find a disconsolate graduate or two sobbing away in the darkness over a forgotten glove or a bit of lace, while the unconscious owner is enjoying the festivities of the hour somewhere outside. The trustees of Columbia College, at their centennial jubilation last week, conferred the degree of doctors of letters upon Amelia C. Edwards and upon Miss Freeman, and that of doctor of laws upon Maria Mitchell, professor of astronomy at Vassar College. In these honors the women were associated with such men as Andrew D. White, George William Curtis, George Bancroft, Chief Justice Waite, Mayor Hewitt of New York, and others less eminent. Truly the world moves, and even the most conservative of institutions are thrust forward, though battling with an unwilling step, by its motion.

MRS. MARY L. BARY, who is making herself famous as a writer of Scotch dialect stories, hardly touched pen to paper up to the age of 54. She lost her husband, who was Military Governor of Texas, and seven children in the space of twenty-four hours from yellow fever, and found herself left with four little ones and 70 cents in her hands. In course of time she drifted to New York and became a governess in the family of one of A. T. Stewart's partners. Her first tale, which was written at the request of her employer, dealt with life in the old days in Texas, and found a publisher with ease.

THE mother of Munkacsy died in giving him birth. His father tried to free Hungary in 1848 and died in jail, and the future painter was raised by an aunt. She was killed and robbed and he was obliged to go out alone. He was apprenticed to learn the trade of a cabinet-maker, and when he had learned it he worked as a journeyman for 24 florins a week. That would be about $4 a month—something enormous! In the midst of plenty of work and much misery he borrowed books, studied them, and made rhymes that the boys of the town pronounced fine poetry. In 1861, after living six or seven months without ever tasting a warm meal, he sickened and was ill for a long time. But while abed he determined to become a painter; he learned to draw, and when he was well again he learned how to prepare color and compose pictures.

PROBABLY the most remarkable will ever made was recently drawn up by Alderman Hartman, of Pittsburgh. The testator, Ambrose Betharge, who is 52 years of age, after disposing of $10,000 in real estate, directs as follows: "I direct that my body be taken to St. Michael's Church, and, after the proper religious services are performed, that it be given in charge of my family, who will convey it to Samson's Crematory and there have it burned to ashes, the ashes to be put in a small bottle and given in charge of the German Consul in Pittsburgh. This gentleman will then forward my ashes to the Consul in New York, who will give them in charge of the captain of the German steamer Elbe, who will place them securely in his ship for the ocean voyage. When at mid-ocean I direct the captain to request one of the passengers to dress in a seafaring suit and ascend with my ashes in his hand to the top of the topmost mast, and, after pronouncing a last benediction, to extract the cork from the bottle and cast its contents to the four winds of heaven. I direct, also, while this ceremony is being performed, that it be witnessed by all passengers on board. After the Elbe has completed her trip and returned again to New York, I want a full statement of my death, and the scattering of my ashes in mid-ocean published in the Pittsburgh papers, so that my friends in this city shall know my burial place."

THE prosperity of the United States is always menaced by enterprising people who are striving to do too much, pertinently remarks the Milwaukee Wisconsin. That is, creating large supplies before there is a demand. If all the present railway projects are carried out 21,000 miles of railway will be built this year; and that will require a fixed investment of $500,000,000 of capital. The relaying of 13,000 miles of old track with steel rails will require $100,000,000 more. We do not think that so many miles of new track will be built, but an effort is making in that direction. As an evidence of the rashness of some of these enterprises, it is announced that the Atchison, Topeka and Sante Fe will build a new line from Kansas City to Chicago, 489 miles, requiring an outlay of at least $18,000,-000. The company has just concluded a contract for 100,000 tons of steel rails, and it is supposed these rails are intended for the Chicago and Kansas City line. Inasmuch as there are already four roads from Chicago to Kansas City, it seems like putting in the fifth wheel of a wagon. Another serious menace is the large destruction of property by fire. This waste annually absorbs $100,000,000 of money. It is much worse than any permanent investment, because it is an utter annihilation of that amount of property. The waste goes on increasing from year to year. It not only bankrupts many persons and renders their lives hopeless and cheerless, but nearly ruins all investments in insurance companies, and to that extent is a dead weight on capital. Foreign nations do not earn as much as the United States, but they do not waste as much; and, therefore, the balance-sheet of savings is not so widely different. France has a population of 37,000,000, and covers a large territory, yet the annual destruction of property by fire in all France does not probably exceed $1,000,000.

Scarlet Fever and Diphtheria are spread by contagion, by the transfer of living matter. These particles come from the skin, the membranous lining of the mouth, nose and throat, and from the intestines and urinary organs. Disinfect promptly and thoroughly with Darbys Prophylactic Fluid, the great germ destroyer.

Prof. H. T. Lupton, of the Vanderbilt University, Tenn., says: "As a disinfectant and detergent Darbys Prophylactic Fluid is superior to any preparation with which I am acquainted."

THE editor of the Catholic Review must have served an apprenticeship on a newspaper editorial staff. It has the following excellent suggestion of a way to discourage prize-fighting: "In England, the birthplace and home of prize-fighting as a profession, while boxing has by no means become a lost art, prize-fighting, so far as the general public is concerned, has fallen into utter disrepute and become a very precarious means of livelihood. Why? Because the press buried it under silence. Over here just now prize-fighting flourishes, though even here there are growing signs of decay. Why does it flourish? Because the press chronicles it. Is it not a duty which the press owes to its own dignity and honor as well as to public morals to shut down resolutely on this brutal fraud?"

THE Supreme Court of Ohio in a recent case involving rebates and discrimination in favor of the Standard Oil Company held that such abuses of corporate franchises by a railroad corporation would justify the revocation of its charter. Such a course, the court said, could be taken without the authority of any statute and simply by virtue of the principles of the common law. It is well to bear this important doctrine in mind. Public corporations are created and endowed with certain special powers with a view to the common good, but when they subvert this purpose, and become extortionate monopolies, and deal wrongfully and oppressively with the public they may be declared nuisances and wiped out of existence. There is, in extreme cases, a death penalty for corporations as well as for natural persons.

Lost.—"I don't know where, I can't tell when, I don't see how—something of great value to me, and for the return of which I shall be truly thankful, viz: a good appetite."

Found.—"Health and strength, pure blood, an appetite like that of a wolf, regular digestion, all by taking that popular and peculiar and peculiar medicine Hood's Sarsaparilla. I want everybody to try it this season." It is sold by all druggists. One hundred doses one dollar.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferers at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub wakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhoea, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

Care for the Children

Children feel the debility of the changing seasons, even more than adults, and they become cross, peevish, and uncontrollable. The blood should be cleansed and the system invigorated by the use of Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"Last Spring my two children were vaccinated. Soon after, they broke all out with running sores, so dreadful I thought I should lose them. Hood's Sarsaparilla cured them completely; and they have been healthy ever since. I do feel that Hood's Sarsaparilla saved my children to me." MRS. C. L. THOMPSON, West Warren, Mass.

Purify the Blood

Hood's Sarsaparilla is characterized by three peculiarities: 1st, the combination of remedial agents; 2d, the proportion; 3d, the process of securing the active medicinal qualities. The result is a medicine of unusual strength, effecting cures hitherto unknown. Send for book containing additional evidence.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla tones up my system, purifies my blood, sharpens my appetite, and seems to make me over." J. P. THOMPSON, Register of Deeds, Lowell, Mass.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla beats all others, and is worth its weight in gold." I. BARRINGTON, 130 Bank Street, New York City.

Moonlight Nights the Bane of Engineers.

"Moonlight nights—they are the bane of railroad engineers," remarked a head official of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. He is a gentleman who knows every branch of railroading.

"I would have thought that the trainmen would be glad to have moonlight nights," interposed the writer.

"No, sir. All engineers dread moonlight nights. They try the nerves of engineers to their utmost. Engineers like to run on dark nights. On a moonlight night the trouble with them is no trouble at all—shadows. An engineer, looking out from his engine, sees before him all manner of shadows. He is sure that the dark shadow across the track he sees is a man, or a rock, or some kind of an obstruction. He don't know, and he is kept in a state of nervous excitement all the time. Going around curves, along hillsides, many curious shadows are outlined on the track, and very often an engineer is so worked up over a night's ride that he is scarcely able to perform his duties."

"Some years ago, when I was going over the main stem of the Baltimore and Ohio, one night, there was a freight wreck ahead of us. They were running freights in convoys then, or, as we now call them, in sections. Our train was stopped, and I went forward to see what was the damage. Lying in a cut was about the worst freight wreck I have ever seen. I went forward to see what the trouble was. It was a moonlight night, and when I got forward I saw the engineer. He was shaking all over with excitement. He was one of the oldest and best engineers on the road, and I was surprised to see him so nervous, as he had escaped unhurt.

"'What is the trouble, Tom?' I asked him. I could see nothing wrong.

"'It was a rock,' replied Tom. 'I was coming round the curve when I saw it. It was a big one—big enough to smash a whole train. I reversed the engine to save a smash-up, and the cars coming down the grade just piled up in the shape you see them.'

"I looked around, but could see no rock anywhere. The wreck was cleared away that night, and there wasn't a sign of an obstruction near the locomotive. We all were curious to find out what had caused the trouble. The next night a railroad man went to the cut, and there, in the moonlight, he saw a perfect image of a big rock lying right across the track. He looked up on the hillside, and there was a big rock throwing its shadow down on the track. That was the shadow that caused a wreck that cost the company thousands of dollars. No, sir, if an engineer wants things to suit him, he don't want moonlight by which to run his train."—Pittsburgh Chronicle.

A Retrospect.

The recent action of the Harvard College authorities, in striking Greek from the list of studies required for the degree of A. B., marks an area in the history of college education in this country. The long struggle, which has been carried on at times with much bitterness between the classical and modern party, has been distinctly advanced one stage toward a final settlement. The adherents of the classical course have steadily claimed for it a marked superiority over others, and have uniformly resisted any attempt to change or supplant it. The friends of the new studies have as vigorously contended that it is perfectly possible to construct a curriculum which, while omitting some of the specific subjects before included and substituting others for them, should still as fully deserve the name liberal as the old course.

The struggle has assumed different forms at different times. At one period it was simply an attempt on the part of those who thought modern subjects worthy of recognition besides the antiquities to secure for them some place in the college curriculum. This demand, modest as it was, was resisted with the same obstinacy as that which has characterized the opposition to later and far more sweeping demands. It was a great day for American education when modern subjects, such as the natural and physical science, history, English and other modern languages, and social science, were finally admitted to a place in the curriculum of the colleges. It was insisted, however, that space should be found for them, not by cutting the time given to Greek and Latin, but simply by demanding more in these subjects for admission, and thus giving to them as much time as was given before and lengthening the college course correspondingly, so that a college boy is now much older than he was half a century ago. When further demands were made with irresistible force, they were finally met by a reluctant permission to establish so-called modern or Latin-scientific, or scientific courses, parallel with the old, but carrying with them a separate degree which did not recognize the candidate as a liberally educated man, whatever else he might be. It was thus that the field lay, when Dr. Eliot began fifteen years ago his career as President of Harvard college. An earnest agitation was shortly begun to make Greek elective in the course for the degree of A. B. It was maintained that the facilities for study, and methods of teaching, etc., in the modern studies had been so far perfected that they could put something else in the place of Greek and still fairly claim for the man who had completed the course the proud title of bachelor of liberal arts. —Popular Science Monthly.

It Would Knock Her Out.

The Empress of Germany gives a golden cross to every servant in the empire who remains forty years in one situation. Her majesty would come to America and make that offer to every girl who had forty places in one year, she could go into total bankruptcy with no assets in one week.—Bob Burdette.

Everything which belongs to pure, healthy blood is imparted by Hood's Sarsaparilla. A trial will convince you of its merit.

A Good Man's Tenderness.

Boys are sometimes tempted to think that to be tender-hearted is to be weak and unmanly. Yet the tenderest heart may be associated with the strongest and most forcible mind and will. Take for example, the story told to him to whom we owe our great railway system. George Stephenson went one day into an upper room of his house and closed the window. It had been left open a long time because of the great heat, but now the weather was becoming cooler, and so Mr. Stephenson thought it would be well to shut it. He little knew at the time what he was doing. Two or three days afterward, however, he chanced to observe a bird flying against that same window, and beating against it with all its might, again and again, as if trying to break it. His sympathy and curiosity were aroused. What could the little thing want? He at once went to the room and opened the window to see. The window opened, the bird flew straight to one particular spot in the room, where Stephenson saw a nest—that little bird's nest. The poor bird looked at it, took the sad story in at a glance, and fluttered down to the floor, broken-hearted, almost dead.

Stephenson, drawing near to look, was filled with unspeakable sorrow. There sat the mother bird, and under it four tiny little young ones—mother and young ones all apparently dead. Stephenson cried aloud. He tenderly lifted the exhausted bird from the floor, the worm it had so long and bravely struggled to bring to its home and its young still in its beak, and carefully tried to revive it; but all his efforts proved in vain. It speedily died, and the great man mourned for many a day. At that time the force of George Stephenson's mind was changing the face of the earth, yet he wept at the sight of this dead family, and was deeply grieved because he himself had unconsciously been the cause of death. —Manchester Times.

The Cowardice of Animals.

Not long since the writer saw Mr. Thompson, a dealer in live animals, open a box containing an anaconda, take the reptile by the throat, and calmly examine its mouth, opened though it was in rage, to look for cancerous tumors. Then from adjoining shelves he took python after python, each about ten feet long, and examined them in like manner. Only last week at the place of another dealer—Reiche—a big, powerful Syrian bear, a type known for its ferocity, was subdued without the firing of a shot. The bear broke through iron bars half an inch thick, and, standing up with his back against a cage of monkeys, thrust his terrible paw threateningly toward three keepers gathered about him. He didn't have a chance to use them, however, for he was belabored with clubs until glad to get back again into his cage.

On a pedestal near the gate of the Cincinnati zoological gardens there recently stood the stuffed figure of a donkey which, when alive, stood the attack of a lion and beat him off. The lion, it seems, had broken out of his cage and escaped to a wood near by. On a grassy hillock adjoining, a donkey lay stretched in placid slumber—a slumber that was rudely disturbed by the lion, who, in a few bounds was upon him. When the donkey felt the great mass of flesh descend upon him as if from the clouds, he was stunned and indignant, but not frightened, perhaps because he had never read any of the wonderful stories about the lion. He quickly recovered from the blow, and, rising, shot out both hind feet at the same time and caught the lion squarely in the forehead. Badly hurt, the lion skulked off and later the donkey died of the wound he received at the onset. —Scientific American.

Some Advice to Wives.

Remember that you are married to a man and not to a God; be prepared for imperfections.

Anticipate the discovery by your husband that you are "only a woman;" if you were not he would not care about you.

Once in a while let your husband have the last word; it will gratify him and be no particular loss to you.

Be reasonable; it is a great deal to ask under some circumstances, but do try; reasonable women are rare—be rare.

Remember that servants are made of the same material that you are; a little coarser grained, perhaps, but the same in essentials.

Try and forget yourself; as to your husband, forget that you married him, and remember that he married you; he will then probably do the reverse.

Let him read the newspaper at breakfast table; it is unsociable, but, then, it is only a trifle, after all, and he likes it.

Let him know more than you do once in a while; it keeps up his self-respect, and you will be none the worse for admitting that you are not actually infallible.

Read something in the papers besides fashion notes and society columns; have some knowledge of what is going on in foreign countries.

Be a companion to your husband if he is a wise man; and if he is not, try to make him become your companion. Raise his standard, do not let him lower yours.

Respect your husband's relations, especially his mother; she is not the less his mother because she is your mother-in-law; she loved him before you did. —Brooklyn Magazine.

SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR

DYSPEPSIA

Up to a few weeks ago I considered myself the champion Dyspeptic of America. During the years that I have been afflicted I have tried almost everything claimed to be a specific for Dyspepsia in the hope of finding something that would afford permanent relief. I had about made up my mind to abandon all medicines when I noticed an endorsement of SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR by a prominent Georgian, a jurist whom I knew, and concluded to try its effects in my case. I have used but two bottles, and am satisfied that I have struck the right thing at last. I felt its beneficial effects almost immediately. Unlike all other preparations of a similar kind, no special instructions are required as to what one shall or shall not eat. This fact alone ought to commend it to all troubled with Dyspepsia.

MONDAY, JUNE 12, 1887.

THE CITY NEWS.

The council will meet to-morrow evening.

The band tournament occurs Wednesday and Thursday.

Entertainment and festival at the Railroad reading rooms.

The Wabash road runs an excursion to Toledo, June 15.

Capt. Frank Rawles was at Lafayette yesterday spending the day.

The street car line to the east end did a thriving business yesterday.

The members of the Morton club will hold a business meeting in their hall to-night.

The Business Men's exchange meets to-night to arrange the Fourth of July celebration.

Quarterly meeting services were held yesterday in the Berry street and Simpson M. E. churches.

One week from to-morrow will be the longest day in the year. The day's length will be fifteen hours.

Blair Mock, the Huntington murderer, has been assigned to service in the woolen mills at the penitentiary at Michigan City.

Dr. Mock, of Huntington, is going to remove to Marion, Ind. His son, Al. Mock, will manage a drug store at Bucyrus, Ohio.

Engineer Homer Bennett, recently on the main line of the Wabash, has accepted a position on the Cincinnati, Wabash and Michigan railway.

General Manager Williams, of the Nickle Plate road, was in the city last evening. He was in consultation with Hon. R. C. Bell, the solicitor for the company.

Mr. J. H. Simonson, manager of the Temple opera house, left for New York this morning. He will make the bookings for that popular play house and visit his family, who are now in the east.

The rivers are still very muddy, as a result of the recent rains, and the many fishermen who went in quest of the finny tribe yesterday returned with poor reward for their desecration of the Lord's day.

The Huntington Herald says: "Rev. S. A. Northrop, of Fort Wayne, was in Huntington, Thursday, to arrange a program for the Fort Wayne Baptist association which meets in this city September 13."

The Huntington Herald says: "Mrs. Geo. B. Hench, wife of the business manager of the American Farmer, is the guest of the family of J. B. Provines and other friends of this city. Her husband will join her to-morrow and remain in the city over the Sabbath."

The Logansport Journal remarks: "S. C. Tough, of Fort Wayne, is the name of a person registered at one of our hotels, but we cannot positively assert that the man is a tough. We may only draw such an inference by what he has put down in black and white."

The baccalaureate address to the members of the graduating class of the Fort Wayne M. E. college was preached at the Berry street Methodist church yesterday afternoon by the Rev. F. G. Browne. The address was a masterly production and the reverend gentleman held his audience as attentive listeners to its close.

The First and Third Presbyterian churches united yesterday morning in union services at the First church, Rev. David S. Kennedy preached an able discourse to the parents, and the children of the three Presbyterian Sabbath schools were entertained in the afternoon by an interesting address from the Rev. J. M. Fulton.

The Michigan City Dispatch says: "Sheriff Viberg, of Allen county, yesterday landed in the Northern Indiana prison Samuel Ward, colored, who gets two years for burglary; George Werner, who will serve the same term for a like offense, and Jacob Stegemeyer, who gets one year for petit larceny. Ward is an old criminal and a razor slinger, much feared by the colored people of Fort Wayne. He is remembered at the penitentiary for his desperate character while serving a sentence for murderous assault."

The Grand Rapids railroad company paid their employes to-day.

Next Wednesday will be pay day at Olds' Wagon and Wheel Works.

Fred. Elx and Nancy Case, Gotleib W. Heine and Bertha Blombach have been licensed to wed.

"Nigger Jennie," a depraved female, was excused by the mayor this morning on her promise to do better.

The Pittsburg shops finished a new locomotive engine last week, and it was placed on this division of the road.

John Van Buskirk, the sheriff of Baker county, Florida, with his son, is in the city visiting Dr. Van Buskirk.

George Bonnett, an employe in the Bass foundry, had his foot badly burned Saturday and will be laid up for several days.

The Peru Republican says the railroad down the old Wabash canal path would have been built long ago had Wabash voted for it when Peru did.

The cottage prayer meeting of the Y. M. C. A. will be held at the residence of Mr. J. H. Adams, 82 East Berry street, Tuesday evening at 7:30. All are welcome.

Mr. Adam King, an old and respected citizen of Wells county, committed suicide last night by cutting his throat in his own barn. No cause is assigned for the rash act.

Geo. DeWald & Co., are building an additional story and making other improvements to their extensive store rooms on the corner of Calhoun and Columbia streets.

Will E. Davis, the yardmaster at the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago railroad, who has been on a visit in the east, returned home on Saturday and reports having had a delightful time.

Judge Woods has cancelled his engagement to hold a session of the federal court here this week. The federal court business is a rank farce, and Fort Wayne is denied the prominence the bill entitles the city to enjoy.

Will Covey, the proof-reader at the Newspaper Union, went fishing on Saturday night, but as he has failed to report the number of fish caught, it is safe to say that the result of his expedition was a total failure.

The Bass Foundry and Machine Works have just completed a new locomotive boiler of 18,000 pounds, which will be shipped to Moberly, Mo., and two others of about the same size are nearing completion at the shops.

Geo. Metz, Constable John Case, Wm. Stuart, Henry Shoaff and Fern Van Camn hit the dark bottle too freely and stood before the mayor this morning to answer the charge of drunkenness. Case went to jail while the others paid or were hustling.

On Sunday morning occurred the death of Clara Raiser, the twelve-year-old daughter of the late George Raiser. The funeral will take place Tuesday afternoon at half past one o'clock from the residence, 46 West Berry street. Services at the German Reformed church.

The Platt Deutsche Fritz Reuter Verein were at Rome City over Sunday. They were royally entertained at the resort and had a great time. John Schaffer carried off the fish honors and landed a "14½ and a half pound pike" to use his own or Andy Kalbacher's expression, we don't know which.

Jacob Tribolet, of Bluffton, was in the city to-day on his way to northern Michigan where he goes to visit one of the watering places in search of his health. Mr. Tribolet is troubled with catarrhal and rheumatic affections and hopes that the climate and water of these northern resorts may be beneficial to him.

The game of base ball between the two nines of the Newspaper Union on Saturday was an interesting affair and was witnessed by a large crowd of spectators, who enjoyed the sport of seeing the fellows get their hands banged and fingers smashed. The game must have been a fine one, as the score stood forty to thirty when the game closed.

Two of the members of the graduating class of the Central Grammar school, who finished their course last Friday evening will go immediately from their school work to the active duties of business life. Albert Foster will take a position in the Foster Furniture company and Robert S. Robertson will enter the hardware establishment of G. W. Seavey & Co.

The work on the building of the new addition to the Bass foundry and machine works has been commenced. It will be built of corrugated iron and brick and will be 70x350 feet in diameter, and will accommodate about 200 additional men. This firm is doing an immense business and when they get into their new quarters, which will probably be about the 1st of August, the establishment will have in their employ over 1,000.

The Indianapolis Journal says: "The governor, auditor, secretary and treasurer of state have decided that it would not be wise, in the present condition of state funds, to purchase now the land desired for the school for feeble-minded children at Fort Wayne. No building can be erected until next year, and an expenditure of $10,000 for land at this time, when the money could be used for more pressing purposes, would be embarrassing to some extent. The feeble-minded are well cared for at the new insane hospital at Richmond."

Mr. W. W. Rockhill left for the east last night on the limited express, via the Pittsburg and Fort Wayne road. He will sojourn at the sea shore a week or so before undertaking the sea voyage and a trip to the famous springs at Carlsbad, Bohemia, in company with Mr. Will Oppenheim. Quite a party of Mr. Rockhill's friends were at the depot to say good bye and wish him health and pleasure. During Mr. Rockhill's absence Treasurer Berghoff will have charge of his office, assisted by Charley Reese, jr.

EXAMINE BEFORE YOU BUY.

When in the grocer's store you stand
And cakes of Ivory Soap demand,
Be careful not to be misled
And imitations take instead,
For dealers oft will praises sing
Of that which may more profit bring.
Let not your senses clouded be
Because a snowy cake you see,
For villainy is not confined
To darkest colors, bear in mind,

And oft the sham is not remote
From fairest face or whitest coat.
Examine well with careful eye
The cake until the name you spy,
And always thus be well assured
That Ivory Soap you have procured;
And should a lingering doubt remain,
'Twill vanish, like the darkest stain,
When in the tub on washing day
That cake of soap is brought in play.

A WORD OF WARNING.

There are many white soaps, each represented to be "just as good as the 'Ivory';" they ARE NOT, but like all counterfeits, lack the peculiar and remarkable qualities of the genuine. Ask for "Ivory" Soap and insist upon getting it.

A new band saw mill was shipped on Saturday to H. C. Moore, of Fort Scott, Kas., by the Bass works.

Miss Jennie Young, a teacher in the Hoagland school, went to Wichita, Kas., to-day, to spend the summer months.

Mrs. Sam Fisher left for Homer, Ill., to-day, to visit Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Fisher, and will be absent several weeks.

Dr. A. J. Boswell, a graduate of the Fort Wayne college of medicine, took out a license to practice medicine last Friday.

Do not forget the Plymouth church excursion to Warsaw to-morrow. Fare for the round trip $1. Train leaves south depot at 6:30 a. m.

J. W Tribolet, one of Bluffton's leading merchants, was in the city to-day. He went with his father north to see him located in one of the water cures of northern Michigan.

Harry E. Luckey, the only son of John Luckey, of 71 Hoffman street, died Saturday, aged seven years and eight months, and was buried this afternoon from the Cathedral.

Wm. A. Killen has sold to Anna M. Noll and Julian Parent, lots 13, 14, and 18, Lillie's addition, for $710; John Forbing to Caroline Hilker, lot 4, Frebing's addition, for $210.

Receiver Lambard tells us that the double street car track will be laid on Calhoun street, as soon as the water pipes are in. Iron for the Bloomingdale extension is being hauled.

If you have not been to Warsaw this season, avail yourself of the opportunity and go along with the Plymouth church excursion to-morrow, June 14. Train leaves south depot at 6:30 a. m. Fare for the round trip $1.

The Standard club will occupy their new parlors in Judge Ninde's building, at the corner of Berry and Harrison streets, in a few weeks. The parlors will be handsomely furnished and will be elegant quarters for this popular club.

Mrs. I. Fisher and Miss Carrie Fisher left for Mt. Clemens, Mich., this morning and will be absent from the city for about four weeks. Mrs. Fisher is afflicted with rheumatism and visits Mt. Clemens to find relief in the curative powers of the water at that health-giving resort.

Deputy Sheriff Schrader went to the Bass foundry with a warrant to arrest Wm. Nahrwald, who is wanted on a charge of being accessary, with Fred Baumeister, to the stabbing of Mr. Royle, at a dance, in the eastern part of the city. Mr. Schrader went to the office and sent for Nahrwald. That gentleman put on his coat and left for parts unknown to the deputy sheriff and he is not likely to be tried for attempting to kill Royle very soon.

The following building permits have been granted: Chas. Jacobs, to erect a wood shed costing $75, on lot 230, Hanna's addition, to John M. Meham. to erect a one story frame house costing $850 on lot 3, Chute's homestead; to Robt. Kell, to erect a frame addition to his house, costing $400, on lot 29, Clark's addition; to A. F. Rasanson, to erect a one-story frame costing $500, on lot 13, McCulloch's addition, and to Frederick Fich, to erect an addition to his house, costing $500, on lot 2, in Ninde's second addition.
